Pieces

Pure magnesium pieces are frequently used in foundry operations where the addition of smaller precise amounts of magnesium is needed, like in the production of ductile iron using the plunging and converter processes. To minimize losses associated with burning in molten iron melts, some foundries take advantage of the refractory-coated magnesium pieces offered by Luxfer Magtech.

Pure magnesium pieces are also utilized in direct alloying foundry applications where operators need the ability to add specific amounts of pure magnesium to achieve the desired alloy chemistry.
